

Master Benjamin Lee Entertains at a Birthday Party.

Little Benjamin Lee was the host last Thursday afternoon at a delightful birthday party. The occasion was to celebrate his second birthday. The pretty bungalow of the Lees was very tastefully decorated with yellow crepe paper and large chrysanthemums. On the banquette the little table stood, with all the goodies, and was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums. The place cards were yellow candy boxes filled with dainties. From the ceiling of the banquette long streamers hung gracefully. As each little guest entered to take a seat at the table, a yellow lei was put around the neck. This was a very pretty sight—to see all the happy little faces. The crowning feature of the afternoon was a little fish pond which was placed in the center of the dining-room table. This pond was banked in greens, and lying on the bank were the little fishing poles. The little ones had great sport fishing, and a merry laugh was heard from each little tot as the pole was pulled in with a little gift attached. After fishing was over, games of all kinds were played on the lawn and pictures of the little ones taken. By the time refreshments were over it was time to go home, so the good-byes were said. All declared Benjie a fine little host, as they had all had such a good time. Those invited to the party were Master Roy and William Jacobson, William and Michael Neal, Josephine Schwartz, Edythe Paxton, Virginia Rowland, Margaret Kerr.

Musical Recital.

The formal opening of the musical season in Honolulu will be the artistic recital to be given in the Alexander Young Hotel ballroom on the evening of October 4th, when Hugo Herzer will present Carlos Cerecra, pianist, and Mrs. Hugo Herzer, soprano, under the sponsorship of an exclusive group of society women.

Both musicians have had excellent training and are well known locally, and will no doubt add new laurels to their former successes. Dr. Carl Ramus is kindly assisting with a cello obligato in two of Mrs. Herzer's songs.

The list of patronesses is as follows, and a brilliant and fashionable audience is assured to greet these two young musicians on this occasion:

Mesdames W. F. Frear, Sanford B. Dole, E. A. Mott-Smith, H. M. von Holt, James A. McCandless, T. Clive Davies, W. W. Low, Henry Spencer Parmelee, H. B. Restarick, E. Faxon Bishop, C. B. Cooper, Agnes H. Judd, Walter Hoffmann, Theo. Richards, W. A. Love, R. A. Jordan, James Judd, W. M. Whitney, Eben Low, Alfred Hocking, W. M. Graham, A. W. Bottomly, Sarah Angus, Robert Slingle, Jack Balch, Robert R. Eglin, J. S. McGrew, Arthur Wall, Nellie Noonan, J. J. Belser, A. W. Campbell, Bernice Walbridge, Marnie Phillips, H. M. Hepburn, Elizabeth Church, Oliver C. Swain, George H. Robertson, W. D. Westervelt, W. D. Adams, Miss Elsie Werthmuller.

Surprise at Waikiki.

Last Wednesday evening a delightful surprise party was given to Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Foster at their Waikiki villa by a large number of Palolo valley people. It was a surprise party that was a surprise. While the surprisers were going from the end of the King street line to the house it met Mrs. Foster escorting her mother to the car. Mum was the word and the fortunate arrival of an automobile with its glaring headlights gave the surprisers the chance to pass Mrs. Foster unrecognized, and when she returned to the house and turned on the lights there sat about twenty-five of her valley neighbors. The evening was spent in playing pedro for prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott Lytle of Los Angeles are domiciled at the beach. The former is a prominent business man of that city. This young couple have their large touring car with them and are most enthusiastic over the islands. They are well acquainted in this city, among their friends being Judge and Mrs. Ballou and the Judd family.

Trio of Society Girls at Volcano.

Miss Alice Cooper, Miss Agnes Wickstrum and Miss Belle McCriston, a trio of young Honolulu society girls, returned today on the Mauna Kea from an enjoyable trip on Maui and Hawaii. These young girls visited the crater of Haleakala, camping one evening on the summit. This crater is the largest in the world and affords wonderful scenery. A trip was also made to the Iao Valley, which is considered one of the most beautiful trips that these islands afford. Later these young ladies visited the crater of Kilauea, and spent ten days at the Volcano House, where it is delightful and cool. At this popular caravansary good horses can be procured. The surrounding country is so beautiful that an ideal outing can be enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Bishop's Dinner.

Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. E. Faxon Bishop entertained twelve of their friends at dinner. The table was a-bloom with exquisite roses and amilies. Beautiful hand-painted place cards lent additional attractiveness to the table. Silver candlesticks ornamented with dainty silken shades were artistically placed on the table. Coffee was served on the lanai at the conclusion of the repast. During the evening the all-absorbing game of bridge whist was indulged in by the host, hostess and their guests. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. Faxon Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mackintosh, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walte, Miss Lily Paty, Mr. Frank Armstrong and Mr. Walker.

Boyd Luncheon.

Mrs. Thos. Boyd gave a luncheon to a number of friends and neighbors last Thursday afternoon at her home in Palolo. The hours were from 1 to 3 o'clock, and every minute of the time was thoroughly enjoyed by those present. The table decorations were green and red. After discussing a delightful lunch, cards were produced and a number of games of pedro were played. The two prizes were won by Mrs. Merrill and Miss Hicks. Among those who attended this valley lunch were: Mrs. Tullett, Mrs. Day, Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. D. McNamara, Mrs. Ormiston, Mrs. Merrill, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. P. G. Riley, Mrs. Schoening, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Paton, Miss Hicks, Miss Pauline Merrill, Miss Marie Patten.

Mr. and Mrs. McCandless' Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. McCandless were host and hostess at a delightful little dinner at their beautiful home in Sympson Valley. This dinner was given on Tuesday evening. All the decorations were in violets. Large purple violets were banked in the center of the table. The place cards and favors were designed to carry out the color scheme of purple. Among Mr. and Mrs. McCandless' guests were Major and Mrs. Winslow of the Engineer Corps, U. S. A., Judge and Mrs. Selden Kingsbury of Maui, Mr. and Mrs. Hepburn, and others.

Lieut. and Mrs. Bowen's Dinner.

The pretty home of Lieutenant and Mrs. Bowen, at Fort Shafter, made a pretty setting for a dinner which was given on Wednesday evening by this popular young couple. Large feathery yellow chrysanthemums made an effective center piece. The place cards were in water-colors and were the hand-work of the dainty hostess. The large circular dining table glistened with beautiful crystal, Bohemian glass and silver ware. Tall silver candlesticks adorned with silver filigree shades lined with yellow satin gave added beauty to the table. Coffee and liquors were served on the lanai, which was artistically decorated with ferns, hanging baskets and palms. A number of Lieutenant and Mrs. Bowen's guests played several rubbers of bridge. Among those present at this elaborate dinner were Lieutenant and Mrs. George Cleveland Bowen, Captain and Mrs. Estes, Paymaster and Mrs. John Hornberger of the Navy, and others.

Miss Winton's Dinner.

Red exorials adorned the table of Miss Winton, when she presided as hostess Sunday evening. This dinner was an elaborate affair given in honor of Judge and Mrs. Kingsbury of Maui. Covers were laid for eight. The favors, candle shades and place cards were in scarlet, contributing to the central decoration, which was a large fancy basket filled with exorials and veiled with red tulle. Among Miss Winton's guests were Judge and Mrs. Selden Kingsbury, Major and Mrs. Winslow of the U. S. Army, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Prosser and Mr. Charles Pond McAvoy.

which were thoughtfully provided by Mrs. Ormiston. The winners of the prizes were: Ladies' first prize, Mrs. Foster; gentlemen's first prize, Mr. Ormiston. Bill Foster got the booby. Surprise party refreshments were served, after which all hands danced till it was time to catch the last car. Among those who did the surprising were: Mr. and Mrs. Schwarzborg, Mr. and Mrs. Schoening, Mr. and Mrs. Ormiston, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill, Mrs. Mary Wright, Mrs. Day, Mrs. Tullett, Miss Ethel Day, Mr. Clyde Wright, Mr. McFarlane.

Lieut. and Mrs. Smith's Dinner.

Lieut. and Mrs. Roy Smith of the U. S. Navy gave an enjoyable dinner on Monday evening. Covers were laid for six. The place cards were attractive and unique. The pretty oval table was decorated with Australia maidenhair fern and cut flowers. Among those present were Paymaster and Mrs. John Hornberger of the Navy and Dr. and Mrs. Lane of the Navy.

Mr. George McClellan after a delightful visit to the Volcano House returned today on the steamer Mauna Kea. Mr. McClellan visited the island of Hawaii on a business trip, but combined pleasure with business, motoring to the volcano of Kilauea and viewing the wonderful display. Mr. McClellan considers it one of the wonders of the world and is most enthusiastic over his trip.
